Numb. 255.

THE South-Carolina Gazette.

Containing the freſheſt Advices Foreign and Domeſtick.

THURSDAY DECEMBER 21, 1738.

LONDON, Oct 5.

WE hear that there are private Letters in Town from the Earl of Crawford which ſay, that finding the Ruſſian Army could not perſecute its intended Expedition to Choczim, and was to return to the Ukrain, he left it to join the Imperial Army, becauſe the Campaign would not end ſo ſoon there; but finding the Imperialiſts ſhut up in Belgrade, and that Town threatned every Hour with being beſieg'd, he left it, is now come to Vienna, and will ſoon return Home. Thoſe Letters are fill'd with miſerable Accounts of the Situation of the Imperial Army.----

Advices from ſeveral Parts agree in aſſuring, that the Military Preparations made by Spain before her Differences with Great-Britain were accommodated, were not really deſign'd againſt that Power; it having been diſcover'd, that ſhe was well pleas'd with a Pretext to have a Fleet at Cadiz, which will be ready, upon the moſt favourable Conjuncture, for any Enterprize the Spaniſh Court may think fit to undertake. It's pretty well known how unwilling ſhe is to renounce the Project of getting Poſſeſſion of Parma and Placentia, for which ſhe has offer'd twelve Millions to the Emperor; who, at the Inſtigation of France has rejected it; and for that Reaſon, it's ſaid, Spain has entertain'd Thoughts of having Recourſe to other Meaſures, for accompliſhing her Deſigns upon theſe Territories, which ſhe has heretofore been conſtrain'd to give up. It's believed if the Court of Spain could have cauſed her Pretence of remaining arm'd to ſubſiſt longer, and could have ſtill deferr'd coming to an Accommodation with Great-Britain ſhe would have done it: But this laſt Court being determin'd no longer to content itſelf with bare Promiſes, began to talk in ſuch a Tone, as occaſioned the Court of Madrid to apprehend that contrary to her Intent a War would actually break out.----The Eyes of all Europe are now intently fix'd upon Spain, to ſee what Steps ſhe will take next, and whether France, who is Guarantee of Tuſcany will actually ſend ſome of her Troops into that Country, as ſome time ago ſhe appear'd diſpos'd to do.

Santa Cruz in Barbary, Aug. 28.

The Santon Maley, Machmad-Mahamet, who had retir'd to the Mountains came down lately from thence and laid Siege to Tarudant, which he carry'd by Storm the 6th Day; the Governor of that Town with eight hundred of his Men were all cut to Pieces, after which the Santon deliver'd up the City in Plunder to his Soldiers. We have now ſix Kings in this Country; but Maley-Muſtadi, who is of a pacifick Temper, ſeems reſolv'd to renounce his Pretenſions, and retire to the Governour of Tetuan his Father-in-Law, in order to paſs away the reſt of his Life in Tranquility. In the Midſt of all Troubles this City has acknowledged none of theſe Kings, but is proviſionally govern'd by its own Magiſtrates.

From the Paris A-la-main, Oct. 11.

We hear by Letters from Germany, that the Grand Vizir having march'd up to Belgrade with 60,000 Men, attack'd the Lines of the Imperialiſts and forced into them Sword in Hand; that the latter had above 8000 Men kill'd and wounded; that the reſt of them, conſiſting of upwards of 12,000, fled into Belgrade, whoſe Garriſon conſiſts at preſent of above 16,000 Men; that three General Officers of the Imperial Army were kill'd in that Action; that the Veldt-Marſhal Count Konigſegg is mortally wounded; and that Prince Charles of Lorrain is in Belgrade. The Emperor's Army is diſpers'd, and the Grand Vizir has caus'd another Body of 60,000 Men to advance in order to block up that Town, which he intends to take by Famine on Account of the great Number of Troops in it.

We have a Confirmation that Lord Theodore is landed in Corſica with 24 Pieces of Cannon, 9000 Muskets, and a great Quantity of Powder and Ball.

Vienna,

VIENNA, Sept. 16.

The Poſt-Maſter of Belgrade writes, in a Letter dated the 30th Inſtant, that the Turks Army lay before that Place in form of a Half-moon; and that it was conjectured, from the great Number of the Colours, that it conſiſted at leaſt of 70,000 Men. The Grand Vizier for the Encouragement of the Inhabitants of the Places to which his Army advances, has publiſhed a ſort of Manifeſto, declaring, that they need be under no Apprehenſion from the Army; that they may remain quiet at their own Houſes, and exerciſe every Man his own Religion and Trade, without Fear of Moleſtation from the Muſſulmen, who are ſtrictly enjoined not to diſturb them; and that if the Tribute of a Ducat per Head, which the Grand Signior impoſes on them as well as on his other Subjects, be thought too burdenſome, they need only appeal to the Grand Vizier, who will take Care to remedy it in his own Name.

The Body of Troops which has blocked up Belgrade, is encamped from one Side of the Danube to the other, upon two riſing Grounds, on the Right and Left. As Belgrade ſtands on a Point, at the Conflux of the Save and the Danube, 'tis entirely ſhut up on the Land Side, but preſerves a Communication by the River. The Baſha who commands the Troops of the Blockade, has ſent two Detachments to block up Sabacz and Ratſcha, two Forts, in each of which there's an Imperial Garriſon. The Grand Vizier is alſo advancing towards Belgrade, with 50,000 Men of the beſt Turkiſh Troops, and ſuch a frightful Train of Artillery, as leaves no room to doubt but he intends to beſiege that Place. 'Tis even ſaid, that this General, who, when once he has formed a Reſolution, never departs from it, has obliged the Officers of his Army to ſwear upon the Alcoran, that they will loſe their Lives in the Siege rather than give it over. The little City of Semendria, ſituate on the Banks of the Danube, and which has only a Wall to defend it, has been obliged to capitulate to the Turks; and the Garriſon, conſiſting of 800 Men, has been conducted with a Guard to Belgrade. The Officer who commanded the Garriſon reports, that as he came away from Semendria, the Grand Vizier had juſt paſſed the Morave with a great Body, having the Seraskier of Widdin with him, and the chief Bathaws and Officers of the Ottoman Army: He adds, that nothing could be more pompous and ſplendid than the March of this Grand Vizier, on account of the vaſt Equipage he carries with him, which is of the utmoſt Magnificence. The Viziers of the Bench, who are Secretaries of State at the Porte, are in his Retinue, in order to perform their Functions in the Negociations for a Peace, in caſe that Things ſhould come to a Suſpenſion of Arms; which, however, is not like to happen very ſoon. The Arrogance of the Turks is ſo great at preſent, that they form the vaſteſt if not the raſheſt Projects: Yet, 'tis known by private Advices, that the Grand Vizier has a Permiſſion to conclude a Suſpenſion of Arms with the Emperor; provided his Imperial Majeſty leaves the Grand Signior at Liberty to deal as he thinks fit with Ruſſia; but this is a Condition which is never like to be complied with.

Madrid, Sept. 23. Since the Preliminaries of Accommodation between Great Britain and this Court have been regulated, Mr. Keene has diſpatched a Courier to Admiral Haddock, to let him know that he might leave Port Mahon with the Fleet under his Command, and ſail for Gibraltar, which he has accordingly done. The Court, on it's Side, has likewiſe ſent Orders to the Troops that are canton'd in the Neighbourhood of Gibraltar to draw off, and go into Quarters of Refreſhment.

London, Sept. 12. His Majeſty has been pleaſed to appoint Capt. Alexander Glynn, a Native of North Britain, to be Governor of South-Carolina, in the room of Coll. Samuel Horſey deceaſed.

We hear an Order is gone down to the Sea-Ports, not to impreſs any more Men for his Majeſty's Service, till further Orders.

We hear that there will be a Grand Council this Day at Kenſington, on extraordinary Affairs.

Sept 18. On the 23d of Sept. N. S. died at Leyden, aged 70, the famous and learned Dr. Herman Boerhaave, Profeſſor of Phyſick in that Univerſity, too well known in the learned World to have any thing ſaid of him here.
